

Mission Statement

Reflection

I do not have a mission statement available from the TEM class because before I received my MacBook I worked on a computer that wasn't my own, and the owner deleted the file.

Statement

My mission is clear; I will acquire all the knowledge I need to build interactive web apps independently or with a team before I graduate through the faculties of my will and ingenuity. I will do this by performing my best in my classes, conducting research independently, and practicing development skills on my free time by working on side projects. I will demonstrate my will by accomplishing my goals by remaining steadfast through all obstacles that are presented to me, and seeing things through to the end. I will demonstrate my ingenuity by constantly expanding my knowledge of items relevant to web design & development to have a thorough understanding of the tools and techniques necessary to solve problems with creative solutions.

Where Am I?

Currently, I see myself on the first steps of my journey and I have resolved myself to take certain steps to reach the "finish line" so to speak. I have already begun familiarizing myself with a lot of the tools of web design and development such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript, MySQL, PHP, and VCS tools; and through further use of these tools I will refine my knowledge so I can be decisive in which tools to use to create the best solutions imaginable. By continuing on this path I will be able to fulfill my mission of being able to build web applications independently or with teams before I graduate!
